General Comments:	i. Abby reflected before and after each lesson she taught. She observed children to determine who was ready for her lessons and observed after the work was presented to ensure they were able complete the assigned task. Abby used reflective questioning during her lessons and began to develop a more intentional way to ask children how they know what they know. ii. Abby created a math, science, and "geography" work for the environment. She presented the information accurately and offered scaffolding based on the children's needs. She developed different levels of difficulty within each work in order to best meet the needs of each child. She shows great passion and openness to the Montessori Method. iii. Abby was kind to everyone she met in the hallway, and was eager to meet parents or other staff members. Her lesson plans and materials were created on time and corrected if needed. The children grew to love her and they love repeating the work she created in the classroom.
